

About Us & Our Services

Signal One has been servicing the law enforcement, military and security industries for over eighteen years. From starting as a manufacturer of CB radio modifications and electronic kits for schools, we are now one of Australia's largest manufacturers and suppliers of law enforcement equipment and apparel.

We are able to offer a wide range of customisable, quality uniforms & equipment, specifically designed to enhance the law enforcement industry. This is backed up by a wealth of industry knowledge, an extremely experienced support team and 100% satisfaction guarantee on all our products.

In 2005, Signal One acquired two prominent Australian companies, The Kit Group and Headoffice Online - this ensured that our customers were being supplied with the most comprehensive and affordable product ranges in the country.

The Kit Group has been supplying quality security uniforms & accessories around the world for 22 years. Their product knowledge and industry experience allows Signal One to fulfil all your uniform and accessory requirements at an extremely competitive price.

Headoffice Online brought diversity to our team. Whether it be caps and polo shirts, work wear or corporate gifts and apparel, The Signal One team are now able to source an infinite array of products and services to assist your business reach its goals.

Signal One looks after its account holders, and understands the value of good relations with government organisations and large companies - we strive to give the best possible price to our bulk ordering clients. Call us with your requirements to see what deals and prices we can offer you.
